Bad things in life are unavoidable. For example, in my life I've dealt with things like losing family members, mental illnesses, and having no friends. However, what's important is how you react to those bad things and reminding yourself that you're strong and able to get through whatever life throws at you. For that reason, I decorated one of my shoes with a bunch of flowers and wrote "Growin!" on the toe to show that it's possible to become a flower that grows from the cracks in the sidewalk, or grow and become a better, kinder person no matter what you've been through. I filled my other shoe with important things or hobbies in my life like color guard, the name of the first album I ever bought, makeup, and a two dollar bill. My grandpa who recently passed away gave me one and told me to "always keep one on me for good luck", and I've kept one in my phone case ever since.
